

SENATE ADJOURNS, BREAK IS CERTAIN

Breach With President Is Outstanding Feature

Washington, March 19.—Memorable for its breach with the White House over the Warren nomination, the special session of the senate which convened March 4 had passed into history today after pursuing its turbulent way to the very closing hours.

With the senate's adjournment since the yesterday congress had closed its doors until the convening of the regular session on the first Monday in December, unless called in special session. Of this, President Coolidge has indicated no intention.

The senate finished off the record of its session yesterday by again standing on its opinion with respect to a presidential nomination, refusing, as in the case of Charles B. Warren, to be attorney, to give its approval to the resubmitted nomination of Thomas F. Woodlock of New York to be a member of the interstate commerce commission.

Sent up by the president again yesterday after it had failed of confirmation at the last session, the nomination was referred to the interstate commerce committee which did not even meet to consider it. The president is expected by his close friends to give Mr. Woodlock a recess appointment.

With a large number of nominations, however, approved without debate or roll call in the closing hours yesterday, the Warren and Woodlock nominations and 29 postmasters were the only ones of all submitted by the president during the session that failed of confirmation.

The 12 legislative days of the session was confined to ratification of the sale of Pines treaty and adoption of two investigation resolutions and a few lesser measures. Agreement also was reached to take up the world court issue next December.

Two Factions Claim Vera Cruz Government
Vera Cruz, March 19.—Two factions are claiming the right to govern Vera Cruz city, and the situation has reached a point where federal intervention is thought likely.

One of the factions is that ousted about three months ago on charges of malfeasance in office, but which recently secured a writ of amparo and declared itself again in power.

The civil administration council which had meanwhile taken over the city's affairs refused to retire and the old government has established headquarters in a private house and notified business men not to pay taxes to the civil council.

The federal government has been appealed to, and is said to be considering new elections to settle the issue.

MOB PURSUES SUPPOSED BOSTON BACK BAY YEGG

New Outbreak by "Lone Wolf" Sets District in Uproar.

Boston, March 19.—Boston's Back Bay district, residents of which have been on edge for weeks as the result of the depredations of a burglar or burglars parading under the name "The Lone Wolf," was yesterday the scene of a mob chase resulting in the capture of Phillip Pucci of Boston, after one woman had been attacked and another frightened into hysteria. The occurrence was the latest of a series of breaks in which women have been attacked and robbed in Back Bay apartments.

A Hemenway street apartment house was thrown into an uproar yesterday when a man knocked at the door of the suite of Miss Anna Darrah and forced himself in when the door was opened. The man fled from the house when Miss Darrah's screams in her struggle with him brought a dozen men to the scene.

Two policemen joined the pursuit which led to another house where a woman screamed to the police that a man had entered her apartment and had fled. In the cellar Pucci was arrested. He claimed that he was a member of the pursuing party. He was identified, however, as the man who entered her apartment by Miss Darrah, the police said.

ALL DIPLOMATIC POSTS ARE FILLED

This Is First Time in Years All Jobs Are Taken

Washington, March 19.—For the first time in years that portion of the American diplomatic slate on which are written the names of the ambassadors and ministers to South and Central American republics is one hundred per cent complete, while the list of those who represent the United States in other parts of the world is nearer completion than it has been for a long while.

The appointment and confirmation yesterday of Peter Augustus Jay of Rhode Island as ambassador to Argentina, of Ulysses Grant Smith of Pennsylvania as minister to Uruguay, and George L. Kreech of Kansas, as minister to Paraguay, filled the last vacant Pan-American diplomatic posts.

Secretary Kellogg is expected to make recommendations to fill the remaining vacant places without delay, and, in the interim of senate adjournment, will ask for recess appointments. Only selection of a minister to China to succeed Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, transferred as ambassador to Berlin, a minister to Rumania to succeed Mr. Jay, a minister to Albania to succeed Mr. Grant Smith, and an agent to Tangier, now will be necessary to complete reorganization of the foreign service.

The only capitals where this government has no classified diplomatic representation are Constantinople and Moscow.

SHEPHERD TO ASK BAIL SATURDAY

Alleged Slayer of McClintock Wants Liberty

Chicago, March 19.—William D. Shepherd, foster father of William McClintock, orphan millionaire, today occupied the same county jail cell in which Nathan Leopold, Jr., awaited trial 9 months ago for killing Robert Franks, while prosecutors investigated a theory that the typhoid germs he is accused of giving McClintock to kill him may have come from the city health department.

They established a connection between two health department employees and the National University of Sciences, whose head, Charles C. Faiman, named with Shepherd in the indictment charging McClintock's murder, said he gave the germs to Shepherd for administration to McClintock.

Stationary of the school contained as members of the faculty the names of Winfield S. Hoerger, health inspector, and Dr. Harry Rand, formerly in the Bureau of diphtheria control. Until a month ago, prosecutors said, Hoerger's duties had been to receive typhoid and other germ cultures at the city laboratory. He denied being a faculty member of the school and said he was only a student there. Dr. Rand was listed as the medical director of Faiman's school.

Temporarily denied freedom on bail, Shepherd was taken to the county jail yesterday afternoon when a petition for a writ of habeas corpus was dismissed after the indictment against him was returned.

It was agreed to go thoroughly into matters of motions and bail Saturday morning.

Possible exhumation not only of the body of young McClintock, but also those of Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock, his mother, who died sixteen years ago, and Dr. Oscar Olson, friend of the family and brother of Harry Olson, chief justice of the municipal court and instigator of the McClintock orphan's death inquiry, was indicated by state's attorneys.

Faiman, although indicted, has not been formally arrested but is held in custody of the state's attorney. Meanwhile he is being further questioned regarding his story that he furnished the germs for Shepherd and instructed him for $100,000 in methods to introduce them into the body of McClintock.

Hearing on the content of the purported will of young McClintock which left the bulk of his estate of $1,000,000 to Shepherd, was continued yesterday to May 1.

RELICS DESTROYED

Loss in Fire of Madame Tussaud's Wax Works Not Ascertained But Many Historic Collections Lost.

London, March 19.—The full extent of the loss in the burning last night of Madame Tussaud's famous wax-works show in Marylebone road had not been ascertained this morning, but it is feared many historical relics collected by its founder, who lived in the French revolutionary period, have been destroyed.

The show included effigies, with the features in wax of thousands of famous persons in history, as well as a "Chamber of Horrors," with models of notorious criminals, crimes and executions. It was reputedly the finest of its kind in the world; less popular than a generation ago, perhaps, but still visited by many Englishmen and foreign tourists.

The story of its burning is given in columns by the London newspapers, in comparison with inconspicuous paragraphs about the American tornado and the Tokio fire.

5 POWER PACT IS FIRST BIG ISSUE

Must Be Disposed of in European Security Problem

Dr. The Associated Press.

Paris, March 19.—So far as they have progressed the conversations regarding the European security problem appear to have fixed only one point clearly, this being that the German suggestion for a pact of five powers—Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy and Germany—must be disposed of before anything else can be done. Foreign Minister Stresemann thus seems to have scored a success by making Germany the key to the situation for the moment.

The French government, it is learned from a reliable diplomatic source, suggested that a pact of three powers—France, Belgium and Great Britain—precede consideration of the German offer so that the allies principally interested would present a united front in dealing with the German proposal. Austen Chamberlain, the British foreign secretary, is understood to have insisted that the Germans must be in the negotiations from the beginning. Premier Herriot then pointed out that the German suggestions required elucidation. The document which was shown him was what diplomatic calls a verbal note, though committed to writing. It was of about 250 words in length only, and to the French mind left every essential point in the dark. It was a mere outline of the general framework of the proposed pact. It was said in official circles this morning, and could not in its present form be the basis of any discussion.

The exchanges of views among the chancelleries which have been going on since Mr. Chamberlain's visit have resulted in the tentative conclusion that it would be well for the allies collectively to ask the German government to make definite and precise proposals. It is understood that Premier Herriot came around to this view after his recent talk with Foreign Minister Benes of Czechoslovakia, having come to realize that it was essential to know before the negotiations went any further whether the eventual German proposition would amply protect the interests of France and the central European allies.

SUBMARINE S-19 IS REFLOATED

Had Been Stranded on Sand Bar Nearly Two Months

Boston, March 19.—The submarine S-19 was floated last night from the Chatham bar where it had been lodged for nearly two months, according to the reports reaching the Boston navy yard.

The ship was pulled clear at 5:21, the report said, but on account of the dense fog, it was several hours before the salvage crews were certain that their object was attained.

early in the evening the vessel was floating but through the thick blanket of fog, only the taut cables indicated the position of the craft. Refloated, the submarine will be taken to Provincetown harbor, on the tip of the cape, where temporary repairs will be made before it is towed to Boston. Naval officers, after a recent examination, said that the S-19 had suffered little damage during the two months the bar sands held her fast.

When the submarine went ashore while en route from Portsmouth, N. H., to the New London, Conn., base, the coast guardmen repeatedly risked their lives in high seas which hung them back on the beach in order to rescue the crew.
